

burden.

Barberous.

Mr. John Cook, the well known barber extraordinary, who has for some time operated a shop at the depot, has bought out Mr. Chas. Bull who recently fitted up the room on Congress St., vacated by Hing Lee, as a barber shop. Mr. Cook may be found at his new stand hereafter. The east side shop will be continued as heretofore, being now in the exclusive charge of Mr. Will Reader.

Mr. Osband, of our self-esteemed contemporary, locates Mr. Cook on the east of Huron street, instead of the south side of Congress street, but no one minds a little mistake like this in the Ypsilantian.

Sons of Temperance.